Salem's Tax Levy

Salem voters should not fail to support the only local issue on the ballots they receive at the voting booths next Tuesday. It is a request from city council for a half-mill tax levy to produce the money needed to pay municipal employees.

This is a renewal of the levy now on the tax duplicate, except that it has been reduced from one mill to a half mill. In effect, therefore, it is an opportunity for taxpayers to save money and at the same time assure city employees that they will get their money regularly.

The recent re-appraisal of property will produce more revenue for the city during the coming year, but at the same time the tax rate was reduced. The result is that the increase in taxes will not take care of all of the wages for which the one mill has been levied in the last few years. However, it does make possible a reduction of the levy to a half mill.

Voters have given ample majorities to the levy in the past and there is no reason to believe they will do otherwise next Tuesday.

New Uniforms For School Band

Use of the same uniforms for Salem High school band members for 11 years has reduced these uniforms to a thin and shabby condition and they need to be replaced. One uniform costs about $60, which means an outlay of some $3,600 for a band of 60 members. Public school funds cannot be used for such purposes.

Realizing this situation, the Band Mothers club started some time ago to raise a fund for new uniforms. It has been a slow process, with only a few hundred dollars raised to date. The Band Mothers began to fear the present uniforms would wear into shreds before they could accumulate the large fund, but now they are pitching in with renewed effort since the Salem Saddle and Polo club offered its services in an attempt to raise all the money needed with one benefit dance.

Polo club members are showing a fine spirit in organizing the venture. The Salem Boosters club was the first to respond with a contribution of $300. Other organizations are expected to donate and hundreds of tickets are expected to be purchased by individuals. It's a most worthy cause that should bring widespread response.

Director C. M. Brautigam has worked faithfully to develop a band that would be a credit to Salem High school, and his efforts have produced good results. The whole community takes pride in seeing and hearing the student band, which has shown much improvement this year. It is a real asset to the community, as well as to the school. Buying its members new uniforms will be an expression of appreciation on the part of the public.

Nail This One Down

Sen. Truman has drawn the slippery assignment of hinting to voters that Mr. Roosevelt's re-election is desired by America's critics abroad. "All the world," he told an audience at Worcester, Mass., "would interpret defeat of President Roosevelt as a victory for our isolationists."

If that were true, it still would be America's exclusive business. We hold elections to please ourselves, not our critics. We are not practicing either appeasement or effrontery when we go to the polls. We are practicing representative democracy, which makes government subject to change whenever the people want change. Nevertheless, the party in power will try to make it seem as if this election is too ticklish to be viewed that way.

Any foreign government which forgot its diplomatic relations with the United States, not with any individual or any clique, would be making a blunder. In all probability, the blunder exists only in the imagination of politicians fishing for votes, but for Sen. Truman to speak of it strengthens suspicion that he and his associates in the fourth term campaign may actually be more interested in what politicians abroad think of this country than in what it thinks of itself.

Rewards of Genius

The spectacle of the belated appreciation of a genius, dead and gone these hundred years, is always a sad one. And the fate of Edgar Allan Poe, though he died only 95 years ago, has for some time been a prime example of too much recognition accorded too late. But the crowning irony of Poe's posthumous career had to wait until a few days ago when the manuscript of his famous short story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," sold at auction for $34,000.

This, of course, is more money than poor Edgar ever saw or even dreamed of in his wildest dreams, which were considerably wild. And it was paid for the same tale told in the same words that an earlier public, though not without taste in such matters, failed to applaud and reward.

But the most ironic aspect of the sale is that this high-priced manuscript is generally accepted as the model for that highly profitable form of literary expression, the murder mystery.

When you think of the book, serial, reprint, screen and radio royalties that today's heirs to the Poe whodunit tradition collect, it would have seemed at least appropriate for the Stouts, Hammets, Queens, Gardners, Christies and the rest to have banded together to purchase the manuscript themselves, then suitably enshrined it and offered devout thanks every morning before sitting down to the typewriter.

Thousands of our boys overseas are waiting for those letters the home folks are going to write when they find the time.

The Stars Say

For Friday, November 3

A VERY definite promise for the stabilizing of the position, work and fortunes is read from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. A well organized mode of operation, with firm purpose, shrewd acumen, hard work and perseverance may be expected to reap rich rewards and recognition. A consolidation of all the resources, assets and abilities may be needed to circumvent threats of loss through extravagance, speculation and bad judgment. Safeguard funds, reputation, health and energies and the romantic or affectional life as well. Yield, compromise, when problems menace happiness and pleasant relations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are to have an opportunity to place the work, position, possessions and finances, as well as reputation and prestige, on a solid, secure and enduring foundation during this year, with hard work, straight thinking, well organized plans and purposes, there may be definite returns for efforts consolidated. This against openings for excesses, squandering, extravagance, and rash speculation or use of funds, bound to invite loss and regrets, with unhappy reactions on the family, social or romantic life. Safeguard health, position, property and reputation. In intimate affairs of friction or in-harmony use tact, conciliation and consideration for happy results.

A child born on this day should have fundamental sturdiness of character with sound abilities and purpose, but may be led into extravagance, display and loss of funds and standing by carelessness.

Life Without Carol

Reading of ex-King Carol's brief stop in this country, were reminded of a story. Carol, it will be recalled, told reporters in New Orleans that he "wanted no part of this country," and that "I am going to treat America as America has treated me."

The story we were reminded of was told, if recollection is accurate, by William Lyon Phelps, and it had to do with a children's party which he attended as a little boy. Young Billy grew a bit bored, and said to another youthful guest, "Let's hide behind the door, and nobody will know where we are."

To which the other youngster put this realistic question by way of reply: "What if nobody cares?"

From Hollywood comes word that Producer Hunt Stromberg is planning to make a movie biography of General Patton, to be titled "Blood and Guts." If Mr. Stromberg gets that sanguine title by the Hays office it will certainly be by a brilliant flanking maneuver comparable to the military exploits of "Old Blood and Guts" himself.

In Buffalo the 1800-pound stuffed bison which stood in the Central Terminal has been moved to an inconspicuous and apparently safe corner of a museum. No reason was announced. But could be that some meat-hungry wayfarer, in a moment of unrationed passion, had been trying to carve a hip steak from the beast.

Indian summer brings the days when you feel like going home just before you settle down to work.

In love letters "X" marks the spot where the man falls.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Spread of Tropical Diseases

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE QUESTION occasionally occurs to the civilian population of our country as to whether the returning soldiers will bring home any tropical or semi-tropical diseases which will gain a foothold here.

So far as medical wisdom and knowledge go on the subject, the danger is very remote. All of the unfamiliar diseases to which the soldier is tropical or semi-tropical regions has been exposed are insect-borne diseases and with an alert public health administration insect diseases can be controlled at the source by controlling the insect.

Some of the insects could never be acclimated to our geographical location. For instance, filariasis which is due to the entrance into the blood of a small worm and which some of the members of the armed forces picked up in the Pacific area is spread either by a variety of mosquito which cannot live except in tropical conditions, or by a gnat or fly of which the same is true. The soldiers on return and will probably carry 8 tons of it a long time because we do not know any means to kill it. But we do know that it is not a threat to our health, but that it is a reservoir of disease. There is no agent to transmit it from one person to another.

Typhus fever, or spotted fever, which may be encountered in many parts of Southern Europe and the Near East does not spread except in the presence of the body louse. A good delousing campaign can eradicate any epidemic which gets even a fair start. Since the Civil war we have not been a lousy people.

It may be difficult to get the cooperation of the anti-vaccination cranks about smallpox vaccination, but when it comes to delousing a community, everybody joins in very readily. The Army Sanitation Corps always gets the cooperation of the natives in any invasion area where it is considered necessary to do some delousing. In certain areas of operations where typhus fever is quite prevalent among the natives, as in North Africa, where something like 75,000 cases are reported, incidence among troops was almost unknown.

I heard last winter a most interesting account from Colonel Hume, of the United States Army Medical Corps, of his experience in the Balkans after World War I, in delousing the civil population. The trick is to get the lice out of the clothing which can only be done by autoclaving all the clothing in a sterilizer. And while the civilian is standing around having his clothes autoclaved, being in a state of nature he is deloused by being given a good thorough scrubbing bath with strong soap and getting all the lice and nits out of his hair. And presto away goes your typhus fever.

Prevalence of Malaria Typhus fever is not to be confused with typhoid fever. It is also called spotted fever, or jail fever, and was once very prevalent and very fatal in this country.

Malaria can be brought back by the returning soldier or sailor, but its spread is dependent on the mosquito which carries it which can and does live in our climate. Public health measures can control the

CHAPTER XVII

It was the third day since I'd left New York. The sun beat down on the dusty road that looked as if it had no end but went on into space. And there was dust everywhere. On the once gleaming hood. On the windshield. And on the wind-shield.

Who cared? I switched on the radio but the reception was so bad I switched it off again. Was this the third day? The third week? Or the third year? It seemed to me I'd been driving since time began.

What was Ginger doing now? I gripped the wheel harder. Don't think about her, I told myself. Don't think about her!

How many miles from the next town to the red brick house was over there? Two? Or three, maybe? What? Not even one! Who'd have thought a mile was that long?

Eighteen hundred and twelve miles between Omaha and Los Angeles. I'd looked it up on the map. Eighteen hundred and twelve! That was the name of a Russian composition, Tschakovsky. It had something to do with the Napoleonic wars and there was the sound of cannon in it.

Cannon shooting. Guns shooting. Bugle. Bugle and Ginner. Cut it out, Leo! And stop talking to yourself.

Seventy-five. Eighty-five. That's right! Keep up that speed so like as there's no chance of being nabbed by the cops. Keep it up. It's the only way to forget.

A hitch-hiker standing on the edge of the road somewhere between Omaha and North Platte changed the entire course of that trip. He changed it, but I never even saw what he looked like. I only caught a glimpse of him as I whizzed by at 70 miles an hour.

This hitch-hiker appearing on the road at that particular moment made me decide to play the Good Samaritan. I'd give one of them a lift.

The next one, I said to myself. I came upon him some 20 minutes later. I saw him from a distance, slowed down and pulled up alongside his trudging figure.

The minute I got a good look at his face I decided against it. He looked like the kind of a guy who'd hit you on the head with a black-jack and then cheerfully throw your body in a ravine. It was an embarrassing moment.

"Where'd you want to go?" I asked.

"North Platte."

"Sorry, I lied. I'm taking the first road to the left, down there." Then, before he had time to answer, I got going.

My second attempt, a few moments later, wasn't any more successful. This new fellow looked so dumb that the thought of having to make conversation with him was too much for me. After five minutes I'd be the one that might have to dispose of a body.

"Sorry," I said again. "I'm going the other way."

Fifteen more miles registered on the speedometer. The next one, I decided, will be it. Whatever he looks like or whatever he talks like I'll take him.

And then I saw my hitch-hiker. Not a man but a girl. And she wasn't thumbing a ride but sitting on a couple of suitcases in front of a gas station.

This was something I hadn't thought of. Female hitch-hikers were pretty infrequent and a fellow had to be careful. For a fraction of a second I was undecided and then I slammed on the brakes and came to a stop in front of the girl.

She had been tracing a pattern in the dirt with a little twig and now looked up at me in surprise.

"Hello!" I said.

Her eyes were a clear blue. That was all you noticed at first.

"Want a ride?" I asked.

A big guy came over to us, gingerly carrying a paper cup. I hadn't noticed him before because the water cooler was at the far side of the station. He handed the cup to the girl and she began drinking.

When she finished the water she crumpled the cup and looked up at the fellow.

"This gentleman wants to give us a ride."

"Like hell, I did. I wanted to give her one."

The fellow beamed. "That's swell! But what about Joe?"

"Don't you think he's kept us waiting long enough. Maybe those brakes are acting up again."

"But he promised. He'd have phoned us here."

"Who is this Joe?" I interrupted. "A friend of ours," said the girl. "He drives a beer truck."

"Wouldn't you rather ride in a $3000 car?"

"What's the price got to do with it?"

That stymied me. I shrugged and stepped on the starter.

"One minute, please," said the fellow. He turned to the girl. "We can leave him a note. After all it's getting pretty late."

She thought it over. "Maybe you're right."

Opening her bag she took out a pencil and paper and began scribbling. I switched off the motor and got out of the car. There was plenty of room in the luggage compartment for those two cheap-looking but neat suitcases. By the time I had them stowed away, the note had been given to the gas station attendant. I opened the door and made the fellow get into the back seat. Boy frined or husband, that was where he was going to sit. All alone.

I was perfectly willing to play Good Samaritan. But one doesn't have to exaggerate.

Attention, Voters!

Mr. Businessman, Workingman, Farmer, Taxpayer:

In 1940, when John Coleman campaigned for Clerk of Courts, he said, "Elect me Clerk and I will give you a business office of service."

We quote from the record:

In the year 1941, Mr. Coleman's earned fees, collected and paid to the County Treasurer, averaged $2,266.44 per month. In 1944 they averaged $990.55 for the first ten months, a decrease of $1,267.47, or 56%.

In Face of These Facts

Mr. Coleman has increased his chief deputy's salary from $200 to $250 per month, a boost of $50, or 25% (first time in history of Columbiana County that the chief deputy received more than $200 per month).

He increased his bookkeeper's salary from $160 to $220 per month, $60 or 37%.

His journal clerk's salary went from $125 to $190 per month, an increase of $65, or 52%.

His stenographers' salaries were raised from an average of $82.50 to $135 per month, or 64%.

Average salary paid in 1941, $116.22. Average salary paid in 1944, $177.50. An increase of $61.28 or 53%.

Now, Mr. Businessman, Workingman, Farmer, Taxpayer: During this time your profits, your wages, your prices were frozen and your taxes went up. You did not receive an average increase of 34%.

This may have been "service," but what about the "business"? We will let you decide that Nov. 7th.

LONDON — Capt. S. C. Carter, Australian who reached Britain to help in rehabilitating Australian prisoners-of-war, reported the Jap is a far tougher fighter than the German.

Carter and his companions termed the Japanese "fanatical fighters, very clever in retreat, very clever in individual jungle fighting and in the open—very foolish."

Liquor Rationing On Two Week Basis

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 2. — State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher announced today that Ohio's next liquor rationing period, beginning Monday, would be cut from three to two weeks and would end Saturday, Nov. 18.
In that two weeks period each ration card holder will be permitted to buy one quart, one fifth or two pints of most whiskeys or domestic gin.

This will be the fourth straight rationing period which has been reduced by one week.
Fisher said there also would be a 10 per cent increase in the amount of rationed liquor allotted to license holders.
Increased receipts during October were credited with making the reduction period possible but Fisher said the two week periods would continue through Christmas unless shipping difficulties should make a longer time necessary.
The liquor director also disclosed that dollar sales of liquor up to

Oct. 28 were $80,087,571.02—the largest in history for a ten-month period. He pointed out, however, that a big part of that increase came from higher taxes. The sales by gallons are less than in the high year of 1942.
Dollar sales during the first 10 months of 1942 were $77,000,000 and they were $95,000,000 for the full year of 1942.
Ten-month sales last year were $59,000,000 and for the full year they were $75,000,000.

Mr. Judge For Treasurer
Competent management of the country treasurer's office during the next term can be assured only if voters of Salem and Columbiana county forget party labels and combine their support in behalf of the Democratic candidate, Vincent C. Judge.
In recommending the present deputy treasurer, we emphasize his ability and outstanding conduct of the office, and give only secondary consideration to the fact that he is a Salem man. Mr. Judge had ample training and experience when he was appointed deputy treasurer by the late Olen H. Dawson. Since then he has had seven years' experience in the office and deserves the promotion he seeks. He contributed in great measure to the reputation his superior establishment as one of the best treasurers the county has ever had, and he further demonstrated his qualifications when he continued to conduct the office in a most efficient manner throughout the long illness and subsequent death of Mr. Dawson.
Mr. Judge is the type of office-seeker on finds pleasure and satisfaction in supporting. His Republican opponent lacks both training and experience. Although Richard O. Wilson, the Republican, advertises both qualifications in his campaign literature, he definitely lacks both and his conduct of the office of county recorder during the last two terms has contributed nothing which merits the voter's confidence in entrusting to him an office of far greater importance and responsibility. Mr. Judge will be the choice of every voter who appreciates and expects the highest type of service.
In behalf of my candidacy for County Treasurer, the above editorial is re-printed from The Salem News of Tuesday, October 31st.
It has been a pleasure to serve you as Deputy Treasurer. May I have your support to be elected County Treasurer on November 7th?

THE TRUTH VS. GOV. DEWEY

Editorial

GOVERNOR, HERE ARE THE FACTS!

Hon. Thomas E. Dewey
Dear Governor:

You have been handing the public some tall stories. Some are so obviously absurd we did not deem them worthy of refutation.

That is the way we felt about the tall one you got off at the opening of your campaign in Philadelphia September 7 when you described the present Federal Government as: "an administration which failed for eight straight years to restore our domestic economy, which has been the most wasteful, extravagant and incompetent administration in the history of the nation." We didn't think you could get away with that one. Why did the American people re-elect Roosevelt twice by overwhelming majorities during those eight years if he had been running the country into the gutter?

How could American industry do such a marvelous job of arming the United Nations if it had been ruined by eight years of Roosevelt.

But you keep repeating this absurdity. And now our good neighbor, Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, and one of the best selectors of fiction in the country, picks it up and talks about business being kicked around by the New Deal for eight years.

Perhaps you are fooling some people whose memories are so short they can't remember what happened between 1932 and 1940. Perhaps we should remind them of the uncontrollable facts.

Governor, you know, or ought to know, that national business made the most rapid and remarkable recovery in our history between 1932 and 1940. We did not need the present war to bring back prosperity, as you and your associates pretend.

By 1940, before lend-lease or other war work entered the picture, national business passed the high watermark of the speculative orgy which crashed in November, 1929.

We refer you to the Economic Almanac issued each year by the National Industrial Conference Board, the recognized fact-finding bureau of Big Business. Its trustees are the industrial leaders of this country, many of whom are supporting you. We print their names below.

The 450 pages of the Economic Almanac are almost a solid testimonial to the remarkable achievements of the New Deal in bringing this country from the depths of depression back to economic health by 1940 before war work created an artificial boom.

We have compiled a few of the most-striking statistics, which we print on this page.

Most comprehensive and important gauge of a nation's economic health is its "national income."

On page 80 of the 1944-45 edition of the Economic Almanac is a table which shows that the national income for 1940 was $91,687,000,000, as against $82,810,000,000 in 1929. Under Hoover, national income dropped to 62 billion in 1932. It rose gradually under the New Deal to a new high.

That one table in itself is enough to disprove your silly statements, but there are hundreds of other tables covering manufacturing, trade, finance, insurance and communications which prove that in practically every phase of national life, this country has made a marvelous comeback.

As to employment, you talk glibly of 10 million unemployed in 1940 when the correct figure is 5 million. You chose to disregard all emergency relief work, and of course you fail to mention that employment increased 10 million between 1932 and 1940 while unemployment decreased 6 million. You fail to mention that there were a million more persons employed in 1940 than in the boom year 1929, culmination of the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover speculative orgy.

Governor, suppose it were called to your attention that the Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York publicly declared that a bank was in bad condition and its president incompetent.

Suppose your Banking Superintendent, in denouncing this bank, disregarded reports of his own bank examiners, which showed the bank was well run and prosperous.

Would you consider your Banking Superintendent an honest and trustworthy official, or would you demand his resignation pronto?

We ask you these questions because your campaign runs a close parallel to the hypothetical case of the Banking Superintendent as above stated.

You, as nominee of the party which is supposed to represent Big Business, have been repeating again and again that Roosevelt prolonged the depression of 1930-33 for seven long hard years and that there was no real recovery until war work began to take up this slack in 1941.

Yet you had readily available to you a scientifically accurate report on the business and employment of the nation as prepared under the sponsorship of leaders in your own party.

For you to disregard scientifically prepared statistics seems to us as outrageous as if a Banking Superintendent disregarded the reports of his own examiners.

We have asked the National Industrial Conference Board to send you a copy of its latest Almanac in case you do not have one at hand. We hope you will use it as a reference book during the remainder of your campaign. Yours very truly,

The National Industrial Conference Board, Research Organization of American Business Leaders, Proves There Was No "Roosevelt Depression"

In 1940 as Compared with 1932

10 Million More at Work 6 Million Less Unemployed

In the eight years between 1932 and 1940, while according to Governor Dewey, President Roosevelt was making no dent in the Hoover depression, employment rose from 38,727,000 to 49,181,000, a gain of 10,454,000.

This was 1,256,000 more jobs than in the pre-depression boom year of 1929.

Unemployment in 1932 averaged 11,385,000; in 1940, 5,109,000—not the 10 million that Governor Dewey uses in his attempt to prove that the New Deal accomplished nothing.

Governor Dewey is using figures which make no allowance for the 2,489,000 employed in 1940 on Government work instituted by the New Deal to remedy the very condition of which he complains.

Even excluding these 2,498,000 workers employed on Federal projects, practically as many persons were employed in 1940 as in 1929.

This is remarkable in view of the increase in manufacturing and agricultural efficiency caused primarily by the development of labor-saving devices. During the 11 years production per man-hour in factories increased 41%. In the same period factory output increased 19%, but this was not sufficient to compensate for the greater production per employee.

Economic Almanac 1944-45, Pages 48, 49, 157

TRADE

Profits of corporations engaged in trade, both wholesale and retail, were far greater in 1940 than in the boom year 1929. Here are the figures from Page 271 of Economic Almanac 1944-45:—

1929 Profits $693,722,000
1932 Loss 787,075,000
1940 Profit 788,332,000

The profit under Roosevelt exceeded the loss under Hoover — and Gov. Dewey talks about Roosevelt prolonging the Hoover depression.

These figures apply to 1,770,355 retail stores, plus 200,573 wholesale establishments (count as of 1939, 1940 figures not available), including everything from the largest department stores to corner grocers, and from mammoth supply houses to small petroleum stations.

National Income Reached New High in 1940, Above 1929 Speculative Boom

Total Realized National Income Adjusted by Cost of Living Index

"National income" is the most comprehensive and important figure for gauging the economic progress and health of the nation from year to year. This graph, from the Conference Board's Economic Year Book, is scientific verification of what everyone but Dewey knows, that we went down with Hoover, up with Roosevelt.

1929 - 1940

We compare 1940 with 1929 because Governor Dewey has selected 1940 as the latest normal year before war industries distorted the economic picture and 1929 represents the peak of Harding-Coolidge-Hoover prosperity.

NATIONAL INCOME

1929 — Hoover's Administration —
82 BILLION DOLLARS
1932 — Hoover's Administration —
63 BILLION DOLLARS
1940 — Roosevelt Administration —
91 BILLION DOLLARS

Domestic Consumption of Electric Power More Than Doubled 1929-1940 While Rates Went Down 40%

Remember the campaign against the Wheeler-Rayburn Act? The Republicans called it the death sentence to utility development. Here is what happened after terrible maltreatment by That Man: Total power sales up 58% between 1929 and 1940. Domestic consumption up 140%. Domestic rates down 40%. Millions of homes made more comfortable with electrical appliances and better light — and the utilities still expanding to take care of the extra business. Here are the figures as prepared by Edison Electric Institute, and reprinted in the Economic Almanac, 1944-45, Page 283:

	Domestic consumption in kilowatt hours	Rates per kw. for domestic service
1929	9,773,000,000	6.33c
1933	11,747,000,000	5.52c
1937	17,691,000,000	4.30c
1940	23,318,000,000	3.84c

450 more kilowatt hours per year in 1940 allowed the average householder to operate a refrigerator, radio, washing machine, electric iron and toaster plus better lighting.

ROOSEVELT UNEMPLOYMENT MORE THAN IN PRECEDING PERIOD, RECORDS SHOW

By LOUIS GUENTHER
Publisher, Financial World

In the election campaign great stress is being laid upon the claim that when President Roosevelt first took office in 1933, the Hoover depression was thrown into his lap in straightened out, and his mastery over the situation was such that he restored the nation's stability. This is one of the principal arguments of his advocates as to why he should be elected to a fourth term — in addition to his indisputable experience, which should help secure for us a just and permanent peace. Under these circumstances we are told we should not make the risk of changing horses in the middle of the stream.

It is not our desire to engage in the political arguments expounded in this campaign. We have been through too many of them not to recognize the buncombe, based upon half facts and half distortion, that is fed out to catch votes.

Examines Two Periods
What intrigues us most are the realities in connection with the depression culminating during the Hoover administration, and how credit has been given for curing it despite the actual conditions that prevailed in the years 1933-1939.

We are materially helped in coming to definite conclusion by examining two periods—the ten years antedating 1930 and the seven peacetime years which may be called the Roosevelt era—to find out which of the two turned out the least beneficial for the people.

One of the most dependable gauges to measure this is the extent of unemployment prevailing in both of these periods and for this purpose we submit some interesting figures, which are set forth in the accompanying table, showing unemployment averages for the last 9 years. The years subsequent to 1939 have been excluded because the artificial stimulus of the war absorbed all our unemployment and distorted our economic situation.

Remedy Worse Than Disease
This study reveals the significant fact that during the first period, embracing nine years, unemployment averaged 1,737,888. And the average in the 1933-39 period was 2,814,285! This pertinently raises the question whether the remedy applied by the New Deal, which set out to reshape our world, turned out to be worse than the disease?

In this comparison is reflected the fact that whatever the causes for the depression to which Mr. Hoover's name is recklessly attached, those nine years marked one of our greatest periods of prosperity.

What happened after 1933 is a story of perennial crises and successive years of uncertainty; were it otherwise there could not have been so much unemployment. This is only half the story, for in that year during which the New Deal finally tried to eliminate unemployment the government spent out of the wealth of the people more than $28 billion—fed out for doles, making leaves and for other relief measures, without denting unemployment, as is shown by the 1939 figures which show there still were 2,360,000 people without work.

Other impractical steps were taken to lift the depression, such as deserting the gold standard for fiat currency, depreciating the dollar, setting up NRA, all shots in the arm that were exhilarating but left us worse off when the effect of these stimulants wore away. The final blow fell just when we were recovering when President Roosevelt in 1937 publicly warned that prices were "too high."

Depression Causes
On the other hand a good deal of untruth has been circulated regarding the causes responsible for the so-called misrepresented Hoover depression. It was not just our "upheaval," but had its genesis in the first world war and from the many collateral influences which entered and had a direct influence in bringing about world wide economic maladjustment—universal inflation and a speculative debauch, a fever that could not be halted but had to wear itself out.

President Wilson's pegging the price of wheat at $2 resulted in our farmers gambling on credit to buy more acreage. That was not the going of Presidents Harding, Coolidge or Hoover.

Our foreign loans took out of our national resources more than $28 billions that never were repaid. The Florida real estate debacle, which was not brought on by international bankers, investment bankers or Wall Street, also was a factor. It was one of those mass get-rich-quick manias that afflict civilization, like the Mississippi bubble, the tulip crazes and the Indies speculation, and for which neither Republican nor Democratic leaders were responsible.

Campaign Hoax
And as we look back upon this period we are reminded of a lone cry in the wilderness in 1928—a warning by Secretary Andrew Mellon, that bonds were a "good buy." But whatever the advice offered or from whom it issued, it went unheeded.

In fairness to the facts we have drawn this contrast. At the same time we ask ourselves the question whether the people were not better off in the period between World War I and the beginning of the depression in 1929, than they were from 1933 to 1939, when they had to face recurrent crises?

DEWEY

such pilgrimage of the campaign with speeches in Wilkes-Barre at 1 p. m. and Scranton at 9:15 p. m. None of today's talks will be broadcast.

Dewey topped a day of campaigning through Massachusetts yesterday with a nationally broadcast attack from Boston on the New Deal which he said had become "a collection of warring factions, tied together by a consuming passion for power."

Both Dewey and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., minority leader of the house of representatives, put a new note in the campaign. Martin asked the crowd ringing, whistling throng in the Boston garden, "Do we want next Jan. 20 a coronation of an inauguration?" He got a thundering "No" for his answer.

In a city President Roosevelt has arranged to visit for a major campaign speech Saturday night, the Republican nominee was accorded one of his biggest welcomes of the campaign. Police Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan estimated that 400,000 persons lined the sidewalks and overflowed into Boston's narrow streets. Reporters heard a few deep-throated "boos" along the three-mile route.

Charging that "the Communists are seizing control of the New Deal through which they aim to control the government of the United States," the GOP presidential nominee said there was no such attempt to capture the Republican party.

"Under a Republican administration there will be no danger that the power of government will slip through tired fingers into hands which would destroy that free America for which our sons are fighting and dying," he declared.

Nominating Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action committee, as the "biggest political boss in the United States," Dewey said that Hillman and Earl Browder, Communist leader, were aiming toward control of the government. The names of both Hillman and Browder were greeted with boos and hisses by the crowd.

"If they should succeed," he said, "the fundamental freedoms of every American would stand in gravest jeopardy."

Sergt. Raymond Scott Is Awarded Air Medal

Sergt. Robert C. Scott, son of Mrs. Mae Scott, 742 W. Wilson st., a radio-operator-gunner on a Flying Fortress B-17 bomber in England, has been awarded the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf clusters, his mother has been informed.

To make hard, lumpy sugar soft again, put the sugar into a container with a tight fitting lid. Put also into the container a cup with water in it. The sugar will absorb the water and soften up.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

The Allies intend to abandon their efforts to aid China in every feasible way. Presumably the Burma road will be reopened to handle a greater volume of badly needed supplies, and there may be an Allied invasion of China's southeast coast to establish a base for military operations.

Still, hopes of setting a huge, well-trained and properly equipped Chinese army to work to oust the Japs from the continent are pretty well smashed. It will have to be got at in some other way.

One of the chief reasons for this is China's internal political situation. Now that the lid is off we don't need to use any euphemism in describing Chiang's government. It's a rock-ribbed, one-party (Kuomintang) dictatorship, and he means to perpetuate it.

Chiang's method of keeping in power has involved maintenance of hundreds of thousands of troops to guard against the powerful Chinese Communist armies of the north. These two factions have been operating under a frequently broken truce because of the Japanese war, but few if any impartial observers in China believe that the truce can do other than dissolve into civil war sooner or later—probably sooner.

Thoburn Wiant, Associated Press correspondent recently in China, cables from London that the Kuomintang regime is "more concerned with the inevitable civil war against the 80,000,000 Chinese Communists than in the struggle against Japan". Well, that's strong mustard but those of us who've been in China can't dispute this blunt statement.

Anyway, this host of fighting men, both Kuomintang and Communist, isn't available to fight the Japs. And there are other trials. The Japanese hold virtually all the rich industrial areas. Unoccupied China is crowded into the primitive hinterland, economically shot to pieces, in the grip of terrible inflation—just hanging on by her teeth.

That's what the Allies have been trying to alleviate—and we are told that they've been encountering obstruction from reactionary and anti-foreign elements in the central government.

On the whole the present show-down may perhaps come as a welcome relief to Allies who've been leaning over backward in an effort to meet Chiang's wishes. It should clear the air and result in more realistic relations between China and her Allies.

New Code Would Shorten Time of Closing Estates

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A model probate court ordinance, drawn up to coordinate the varying probate court codes of the nation, has been completed for submission to the American Bar Association, it was announced by Prof. Lewis M. Simes of the University of Michigan law school, author of the code.

The recommendation was made at the suggestion of the Association four years ago and will be submitted to the Bar association committee headed by R. G. Patton of Minneapolis.

Simes said research by himself and two assistants had shown that the greatest failure in probate courts lay in existing laws taking excessive time to close estates. He pointed out that estates in Southern states remained suspended for as much as seven years at a time settlement.

Under the model code, legal processes would be simplified to avoid consumption of estates in lawyer's fees and to allow settlement within a year.

Flashes Of Life

(By Associated Press)
A NEW TWIST
TO AN OLD FOLK TALE

ITALIAN FRONT—An old Brazilian folk saying, "the snake is smoking," believed to have its origin in tales of fire spitting dragons, has been popularized by Brazilian troops on the Italian front. When the phrase goes down the line it means that things are getting hot.

The idea has been developing to the point where soldiers describe distant shelling as "the snake smoking with a cigarette holder," when it comes near he is "smoking a cigar" and when things really get hot "the snake is smoking a pipe."

When Lt. Gen. Mark Clark heard of its popularity among the Brazilian troops under his command he suggested that a smoking snake should be adopted as the Brazilian identifying shoulder patch. The unit insignia will soon be ready for use.

PRIVATES MAINTAIN
PRIVACY OF THE BATH

NEW GUINEA—An infantry division, having taken an airfield in the invasion of Hollandia, was moving back to the rear for rest when it came to a creek and was given permission to bathe. The men stripped and plunged in. "I was enjoying my self," one doughboy said, "when I heard something slap into the creek a few feet away. I thought for a second a guy on shore was throwing stones until I looked up just in time to see a Japanese peering out of the jungle over a rifle. We scrambled ashore, grabbed tommyguns and plunged into the jungle stark naked. We killed three snipers, then returned and finished our bath without interruption."

BOSTON—When he saw a burglar climbing in his bedroom window, Albert Prince took careful aim with an alarm clock and scored a knockout. But while he was phoning police, the prowler retaliated with a vase and escaped.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—
Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly when they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisons to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons and waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Game Time: 7:45 p. m., at Reilly stadium.

Appropriating a current campaign phrase for their own slogan as they square off against East Liverpool's Potters at Reilly stadium tomorrow night, the Salem Quakers are determined that "It's Time for a Change."

That change—and it's been called for before by other bands of Salem players and fans—is to see a Salem football aggregation come out on top in the annual Columbiana county rivalry.

Yes, it's been nine long years since Salem has beaten East Liverpool and Coach Ben Barrett, making his second stab at beating the Potters, is determined that his charges are going to turn the trick.

Back in 1934, Salem won the annual clash, 14-6, but since that time the best they could muster was a 6-6 deadlock in 1939. Over the entire series of games between the two schools the Potters hold a definite edge, having won 16 games compared to 10 wins for Salem and three battles ended in tie scores. Tomorrow's game is the 39th between the schools.

To turn this difficult trick, Barrett has his squad primed and in their best condition since early in the season. The injuries—which have plagued the Quakers since the Leetonia game—are nearly all shaken off and a full, experienced team is expected to be on the field representing Salem from the start.

With several surprises in store for the Potters, Barrett is planning to start Danny Smith at signal calling. Jay Leach on the fullback assignment, with Ray Kelly and Francis Lanney in the halfback slots.

All four men have performed well in previous games and will be in good physical shape for the clash. Other hopefuls on the Barrett bench are Charlie Franks, Bob Boone, Marion Piant and Bob Ward. All have seen action in the ball carrying department and may break into play tomorrow night.

Although Franks has been out of action since he received a cracked leg bone in the Leetonia fray, he has been rehearsing regularly for the past two weeks in preparation for this game. If he is in shape for any tough action tomorrow, Quaker chances for a victory will be far higher. Barrett plans to try him out in the contest and see if he can function with his usual power and speed.

On the line the Salem mentor will be starting a new man—Tom Papardis—at center. Papardis will take over the duties formerly assigned to George "Socco" Vavrek. Papardis, former fullback, is a strong defensive man and is expected to bolster the Quaker stopping power considerably.

At the guards will be diminutive and effective Jimmie Appedisan and Johnnie Plegge, two of the best linemen in the district. At tackles, Salem will start Bud Louis Juliano and smaller Ernie Kornbau, who has been turning in creditable games the past few weeks.

At ends Barhett is still experimenting, but with a more definite viewpoint in mind this week. Bill Stoudt will probably draw the nod at the start but his running mate, Dick Baughman, also will get into plenty of the action.

Walt Brian, senior and captain of the squad, will be in at his regular left end job. Brian may prove a large factor in the Quaker attack, for his pass-catching ability will count heavily if the Salem ground attack is stalled by Liverpool's heavy line.

Coach Gerald Capezutti, Potter mentor for the past four years, has a seasoned, powerful line and a veteran backfield to count on here. He has four veteran Junior backs with him this year and a newcomer, Alonzo Spencer, who chews up regular gains with dangerous talent.

Capezutti will undoubtedly start Spencer and Chuck Means at halfbacks, Henry Pack at fullback and Bob Ward at quarter. On the line will be Bob McGraw and Jerry Jyder at ends, Rudy Trbovich and Sam Winters at tackles, L. Hyder and Dick O'Hanlon at guards and Pat Canavan at center.

In case the Potters kick off, Squires Get Around And Back To S. M. U.

DALLAS — Bill Squires has the distinction of playing on two Southwest Conference football teams in one season—and now he's back to play again with the one he was with in the first place.

The veteran brought this all about. Squires went to Southern Methodist university as a civilian. He was a sensation for a couple of games, then suffered an injured leg. Nov. 1 he was called into the V-12 program and was sent to Texas Christian university. There he got into a game with the Horned Frogs.

He was medically discharged and now is back at Southern Methodist where he's expected to see a lot of service this fall. He's a fine passer, punter and runner.

Trbovich will start at tackle, but if they don't get the Potter mentor usually starts Ray Amundsen, 185 tackle. Lew Tyconevich, a letter-bearing end from last year and 185 pounds of power, has been out with a knee injury but may get the starting bid at McGraw's left end job.

Should "Big Ty" start at end, McGraw, another veteran, can be expected to appear in a ball-carrying slot—usually a halfback job.

As for weight—the Potters are definitely on the heavy side and will have a 20-pound-per-man advantage over Salem. They average about 180 pounds per man as a team to about 158 for Salem.

Both bands will perform at the half with Salem's 60-piece outfit featuring a "swing" show. East Liverpool's 100-piece all-male unit is rated as the best in the county and can be counted on for one of the finest shows staged at Reilly field this season.

BY JAN HARTNETT
CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Indiana, the only Western Conference school which never has won or shared a league football title, again has hopes this season. But there are some stiff barriers to hurdle and the Ohio State game Saturday is the immediate problem getting attention of Coach Bo McMillin.

The Hoosiers, with a 3-1 Conference record, can take temporary possession of the lead with a victory Saturday, shoving the Buckeyes into a second-place tie with Michigan, each with 3-1 readings. If the Hoosiers get past Ohio State they still will have Minnesota and Purdue to conquer. Michigan with three league contests remaining, is the only other team playing seven conference games this season. The two by winning remaining encounters, would finish in a deadlock for the Conference title, with 6-1 records.

The battle, expected to draw upwards of 50,000 at Columbus, will be the 28th in a series which began in 1901. The Bucks have won 17 games, the Hoosiers seven and there were three ties.

Yesterday Coach McMillin was impressed by the work of reserve ends, Dick Frank and Johnny Congdon, and the development of Allen Horn at center.

Widdoes Names Backs
At Columbus Coach Carroll Widdoes listed as his backfield starting lineup for the all-important Hoosier clash—Tom Keane, Dick Flanagan, Les Horvath and Ollie Cline.

Around other Midwest camps... Notre Dame's team, cheered by the knowledge that Halfback Bob Kelly would be available for the Navy game, drilled on passing... Boris (Babe) Dimancheff, Purdue back, was named acting captain for the Boilermakers' remaining games...

Iowa's depleted squad worked against Nebraska plays... Fullback Don Lund, for three seasons a relief man, operated in Michigan's first string backfield as the Wolverines pointed for their Saturday clash with Pennsylvania. Lund replaced Capt. Bob Wiese, lost to the team by Navy transfer...

Northwestern's offense was the study assigned to Minnesota's squad by Coach George Hauser... Freshman Carroll Lohr took over the right wing spot for Wisconsin as Coach Harry Stuhldreher attempted to plug forward gaps for the Purdue encounter... Buddy Young, Illinois' speedster, was hospitalized for treatment of a sinus disorder but is expected to leave in a day or two.
